Head of South Island Tony Sycamore and Board Chair David Butler receive a taonga (treasure) for our Queenstown office from representatives from Te Rūnanga o Ngāi Tahu.

Welcome from our Board Chair and CEO

This year's ESG Overview highlights our contribution to the communities we operate in, how we manage our environmental impact and our ongoing commitment to fostering a culture at Russell McVeagh where our people can thrive.

Over the past year, we have focused on supporting growth for New Zealand through the work we do with our clients, our people and the community. While the broader economic environment remains subdued, slowed by a cautious recovery and global uncertainty, these challenges have also created opportunities.

In April, we opened our Queenstown office, marking a major milestone in our expansion into Te Waipounamu South Island. We are delighted by the welcoming and positive response we have received from clients and the local community. We have also partnered with Technology Queenstown, a not-for-profit aiming to build a $1bn tech sector in the region.

Alongside this we have advanced our investment in AI and continue to strengthen our cybersecurity and compliance programmes. We are excited by the opportunities AI presents and see it as a long-term strategic capability – one that will drive efficiencies and unlock even greater value for our clients and people.

At our partner conference earlier this year, we finalised our new five year '2030 Strategy'. Central to this is a focus on growth, productivity and innovation underpinned by our culture of inclusion, collaboration and excellence.

We now have 52 partners across the firm, with culture remaining the cornerstone of our success. Our values remain central to decision-making, as reflected in our annual Pulse survey, where our people consistently recognise the firm as a great place to work, express confidence in our future and take pride in our culture. This was recognised at last year's NZ Law Awards, where we were named Large Law Firm Employer of Choice.

After seven years with the firm, Jo Avenell has advised she will be leaving at the end of the year. We thank Jo for her leadership and tremendous contribution and wish her all the very best for what comes next.

We are extremely proud of our firm, our people and the exceptional work they do for our clients and communities. Thank you to our clients, community partners and stakeholders for your continued support.

Our ESG Framework

Tā Mātau Anga ESG

We are very aware of our obligation and opportunity to make a positive difference to the prosperity of Aotearoa New Zealand. Our ESG Framework guides our decision-making to ensure we are having a positive impact on our communities, people and environment.

To help shape and support Aotearoa New Zealand's future

We focus on:

Our Community

We contribute to the community through our Pro Bono Programme, our community partnerships, charity days and fundraising activities.

We do this by:

Offering legal support through our Pro Bono Programme to those who struggle to access justice.

Providing time for our people to support charity and fundraising opportunities.

Enabling our people and our firm to establish meaningful relationships, connections and partnerships in our community.

Our People

We are committed to creating a culture where everyone can thrive. Our focus is on ensuring an open, inclusive and collaborative workplace.

We do this by:

Investing in opportunities to support career goals and develop leadership capabilities.

Continuing to create and embed practices that promote a diverse and inclusive workplace.

Offering support for wellbeing, including flexible working, fair pay and benefits that make a difference to our people.

Our Environment

We are committed to understanding and managing the impact we have on our environment.

We do this by:

Identifying opportunities to help reduce carbon intensity and support a smooth transition to a net-zero carbon economy.

Implementing strategies to measure, manage and reduce greenhouse gas emissions through our Toitū Net Carbon Zero certification.

Adopting new sustainability practices and furthering initiatives to make a positive difference.

Our Community

Tō tātou hāpori

Everyone at Russell McVeagh has the opportunity to contribute. Through our Pro Bono Programme and charitable partnerships, we focus on working alongside our local communities to make a positive impact.

pro bono overview

For more information about our Pro Bono Programme and Framework, see our Pro Bono Overview. Our video series also highlights the incredible pro bono work our teams are engaged in and why it matters to them.

Framework for Collaborative Pro Bono in Aotearoa

Launched in November 2024, the Framework for Collaborative Pro Bono in Aotearoa is a professional initiative to support and promote pro bono work within New Zealand law firms.

Russell McVeagh is one of the foundation participants, working alongside Te Ara Ture, New Zealand's pro bono clearinghouse, and five other New Zealand law firms to develop the Framework. Inspired by successful models from Australia and the UK, the Framework aims to enhance access to justice for low income and vulnerable people, foster collaboration and a strong pro bono culture across the motu, and advocate for legal reform.

The Framework sets an aspirational target of 25 pro bono hours per lawyer annually, with participating firms agreeing to report against this target annually in an anonymous and de-identified format, allowing for benchmarking and the development of a strong pro bono culture. This initiative aligns closely with our firm's existing approach to pro bono, which continues to evolve.

pro bono week 2025

We hosted lunchtime events with Sabrina Muck, Director of Te Ara Ture, on the vital role of community law in Auckland, and Tenby Powell, Executive Director and Chair of Kiwi K.A.R.E Ukraine, on delivering humanitarian aid in Ukraine's Red Zones in Wellington.

In May, we held our second annual Pro Bono Week to spotlight our 80+ pro bono clients, highlighting the value of this collaborative mahi and showing our people how to get involved.

Decades of commitment to community law

For over 40 years, we have partnered with Community Law Centres to improve access to justice across New Zealand, starting with Māngere in the 1980s, as well as supporting Wellington, Hutt Valley, Aotearoa Disability Law and Te Ara Ture.

www.communitylaw.org.nz

Each week, our solicitors volunteer at drop-in sessions, offering tailored legal advice on employment, family law, tenancy, consumer rights and other civil matters. We also contribute research and secondee placements, providing valuable learning and development experiences for our people while supporting clients.

Pro Bono in the Community

We use our skills and resources to make a meaningful impact alongside our pro bono clients. Our pro bono hours are recognised equally with fee paying work and count towards our solicitors targets.

Helping build sustainable impact

The Crescendo Trust of Aotearoa empowers youth through free programmes in music production, content creation and wellbeing. Its hands-on training builds skills in engineering, songwriting, live sound and performance. We recently supported the Charitable Trust with its organisational restructure.

Guiding businesses with reregistration

We have supported a number of community organisations with reregistration under the Incorporated Societies Act 2022. The organisations we have supported recently are:

- Marlins Deaf Rugby Union is one of three regional deaf rugby teams in New Zealand.
- Toy Library Federation of New Zealand is the national body for toy libraries, supporting their set up and growth across the country.

Our team prepared new constitutions, advised on governance and guided both organisations through the process.

Building a healthier future for the Wellington region

The Wellington Regional Charity Hospital Trust is bringing to life the region's first charity hospital, ensuring access to essential surgical and medical care for those unable to receive public or private treatment.

Earlier this year, philanthropists Sir Mark Dunajtschik and Dorothy Spotswood pledged to fully fund the Hospital's build and fit-out (excluding medical equipment). In recognition of Dorothy's support, the facility will be named the Dorothy Spotswood Charity Hospital.

Modelled on successful charity hospitals in Canterbury and Southland, it will offer free surgical day services to patients across Wellington, Kāpiti and Wairarapa.

Our firm has supported the project from the outset, with partners Tim Clarke (a Trust Board member) and Doran Wyatt, with special counsel Gareth Worthington, leading our pro bono legal work and working closely with the Trust board and advisers to help make this vision a reality.

Strengthening tour standards and safety

The Waitaki Whitestone Geopark Trust is guiding the development of New Zealand's first and only UNESCO Global Geopark, one of just 229 worldwide, located in Te Waipounamu (South Island).

We provided pro bono advice on the Trust's legal obligations, helped develop underpinning policies and supported them to build sustainable relationships and partnerships. Our work contributes to safe, informed, and culturally and environmentally respectful tourism in one of New Zealand's most geologically significant regions.

Supporting a more accessible Aotearoa

We support advocating for strong, enforceable accessibility legislation that meets the needs of disabled people and others with access requirements.

In response to a proposed Bill that fell short, Access Matters is calling for new legislation that upholds Te Tiriti o Waitangi, embeds the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, and sets clear responsibilities and timelines for removing accessibility barriers.

Our pro bono support is helping to shape the campaign's Government engagement strategy, which aims to shift public attitudes and drive systemic change for accessibility.

Through our partnerships, sponsorships and memberships, we work with organisations focused on making a positive difference in our communities.

Charity Days, Volunteering and Fundraising

Each year, our teams can spend a day volunteering for a charity of their choice. We also support our people to organise fundraisers and events, and encourage opportunities to get involved in causes they care about.

Wearing pink at fundraisers in Auckland and Wellington offices for Pink Shirt Day.

Running workshops with Tāmaki College students, covering topics like finances, employment, life skills and legal rights.

Our People

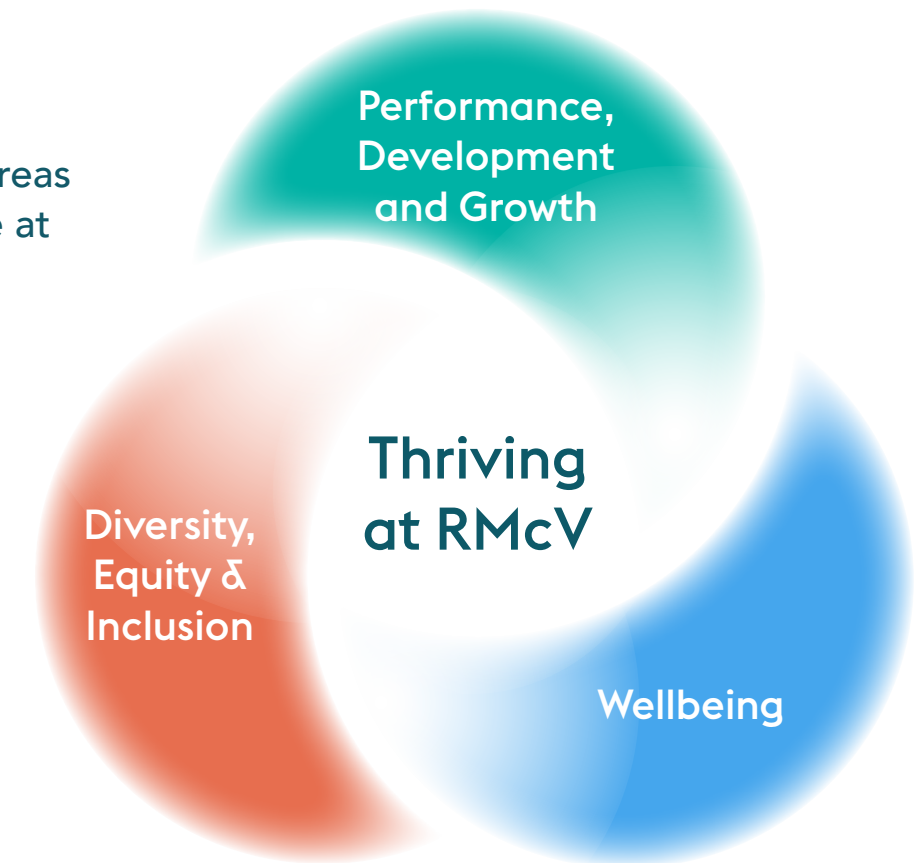

Tō mātou tira mahi

We pride ourselves on providing a culture where our people feel included, valued and supported to be their best.

Our People Framework

Focuses on three areas to ensure everyone at the firm can thrive.

Checking in with our People

Our 'Pulse' employee engagement surveys allow our people to give anonymous feedback and share ideas on what's going well and how the firm can progress. This plays an important role in decision-making and the actions we take as a firm by helping us better understand how our people are feeling.

Prioritising Wellbeing

We provide a range of initiatives and resources to prioritise our people's wellbeing:

Wellbeing support people

Our Kaiāwhina Oranga | Wellbeing Support People are a trained internal network offering mental health support.

Recognition

Kind of a Big Teal, our 'good sorts' initiative, celebrates people who go the extra mile and live our values through their mahi.

Benefits

Annual wellness allowance and access to free counselling through an independent EAP provider, as well as free flu jabs and mole mapping. This is in addition to opportunities to connect through team activities, sports teams and running clubs.

Monitoring working hours

We proactively track hours to ensure time off is taken after busy periods to rest and recharge.

Wellness workshops

Recent programmes: Alcohol&Me for smarter drinking, Money Makes Cents for financial confidence, and workshops exploring the Imposter Phenomenon.

Leader wellbeing

Bi-annual wellbeing checks for partners and senior leaders, and targeted learning on holistic health, habit formation and turning anxiety into growth.

Our Wellington office

Diversity, Equity & Inclusion

Our strategy is focused on three goals, with ongoing progress on our full workplan including aspects such as recruitment, mentoring and career development, and progression.

Gender

A partnership with at least 40% women

Ethnicity

A workforce where at least 30% are ethnically diverse

Inclusion

An environment where people feel they belong and can thrive

Investing in spaces that support how we work

Our newly refurbished Wellington office was designed with our people and clients front of mind. It features upgraded workstations, larger breakout areas to collaborate and unwind, and a spacious new café that brings our teams together. This project reflects our commitment to fostering a productive, connected and sustainable work environment, and was recently recognised as a finalist in the 2025 Interior Awards. Around the same time, we opened our new Queenstown office. This fresh, flexible space strengthens our presence in the region and provides a welcoming base for both our people and clients.

Together, these spaces reflect our focus on creating long-term workplaces that support growth, wellbeing and exceptional experiences. Plans are now underway to upgrade our Auckland premises later this year.

Tracking our Goals

2025 EMPLOYEE SURVEY FEEDBACK:

- “The firm is very inclusive and makes a real effort to acknowledge different events within society and the community.”
- “I believe RMcV is welcoming, inclusive and vibrant, with a strong sense of community where I feel valued, respected and heard.”
- “It’s great to belong to another ‘family’ at work. There is a sense of ‘we are in this together’ which is comforting.”
- “I feel very privileged and grateful to be supported and encouraged to bring my whole self to work.”

Gender Representation

We continue to take proactive steps to meet our gender targets, to ensure women are fairly represented, and focus on strengthening our pipeline.

All RMcV people

Board

All RMcV solicitors
(excluding partners)

Gender and Ethnicity

Our stats show that we currently sit in line with national figures*, and we look across our recruitment, promotion, retention and development to continue moving towards a more diverse workplace.

Inclusion

We track against our ‘Inclusion goal’ through specific questions in our firm-wide Pulse Survey.

*National statistics provided by New Zealand Law Society Te Kāhui Ture o Aotearoa, as regulator of the practice of law, as at June 2024. There are currently 15,640 qualified lawyers based in NZ. Russell McVeagh figures based on all active lawyers correct as at July 2025. Ethnic diversity for these purposes is anything other than New Zealand European or European.

DE&I Initiatives

Connecting with 6,700+ students and sharing pathways into law at the South Auckland Schools Career Expo.

We recognise that achieving true diversity and inclusion requires long-term focus and ongoing commitment. As part of this, we're implementing a broad work programme across recruitment, onboarding, career progression and more to support our goals.

DE&I Co-leads and Committees

Our five people-led DE&I committees work closely with our HR team and a range of internal and external stakeholders to identify opportunities for improvement, and organise cultural events across five key focus areas. Their work is guided by Board member and partner Marika Eastwick-Field and partner Alex MacDuff who help shape our workplan and ensure our progress aligns with our strategy.

Mentees share insights from their mentoring sessions at a storytelling event, with the journey culminating in a graduation celebration held during Race Relations Week.

“It gave me valuable insight into the unique challenges young leaders from diverse ethnic backgrounds face in the professional world, and broadened my understanding of how we can foster a more inclusive culture and contribute to a more equitable Aotearoa.”

Training and kōrero

Rainbow Tick certified since 2016, we continue to embrace and celebrate diversity in sexual and gender identities. This year, in partnership with Toitū Takatāpui Rainbow Tick, we delivered sessions exploring the intersection of cultural and rainbow identities, along with practical guidance on active allyship. Our ongoing panel series also explores themes of inclusion, representation and life skills such as navigating parenting and partnership.

Modern slavery approach

We are committed to ensuring modern slavery has no place in our business or supply chains. As a Living Wage Accredited Employer since 2024, we extend this commitment to our suppliers and contractors. Our approach includes identifying risks, acting with transparency and implementing effective controls.

With the Modern Slavery Reporting Bill introduced to the members bill ballot – proposing mandatory reporting and an Independent Anti-Slavery Commissioner – we continue to advise clients on supply chain responsibilities and international best practices. We recently summarised the Bill's key changes, how they differ from earlier proposals and their potential impact on New Zealand entities.

Reporting pay gaps

We were one of the first law firms to join MindTheGap NZ's pay gap registry in 2022. We monitor pay gaps throughout the year, discuss these with our people and publish on our website. We monitor our gender pay gap, as well as our Māori and Pacific Peoples pay gaps.

Honouring Te Tiriti o Waitangi and embedding Tikanga

We engage meaningfully with Māori, reflecting our role as Tangata Tiriti and our support for Te Tiriti o Waitangi. As one of Aotearoa's oldest law firms, we have a proud legacy in advising on Māori legal matters, including the landmark 1987 Lands case which was the first to apply Te Tiriti principles. Today, we support iwi in a post-settlement world, supporting them to achieve their strategic and commercial goals.

To strengthen this kaupapa, we have partnered with Engaging Well to help us embed Tikanga Māori across our firm. Some of our senior leaders have participated in sessions on cultural intelligence, Te Tiriti and Tikanga Māori, which are helping to inform the co-development of a tailored Te Ao Māori plan. We aim to build the firm's cultural capability, attract, retain and support kaimahi Māori and strengthen iwi relationships.

A Structured Legal Pathway

Career development begins with our scholar programme, summer and graduate clerkships and induction support.

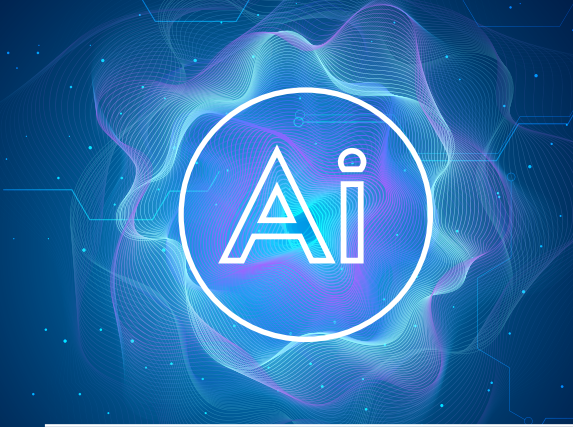

Early-career lawyers benefit from technical training led by partners and senior lawyers, a buddy system with a junior lawyer and supervising partner, and access to networking events and regular CPD sessions, including our Training Tuesdays series. Continued growth is supported through tailored learning, coaching, career panels and a high-performance framework.

Recent examples of our development programmes include:

Senior collaboration forum - A quarterly series for Senior Associates and Special Counsel, focused on deepening practice area knowledge, identifying growth opportunities and strengthening cross-practice referrals.

Thinking (and speaking) on your feet - A workshop for clear thinking and impactful communication under pressure.

Boosting capacity and resilience – Offers time-management techniques, goal setting and strategies to support mental and physical wellbeing.

Approach to AI

We are excited about the potential of AI to transform the legal industry, enhancing both client experience and the way our people work. We have adopted a measured but proactive approach, viewing AI not as a one-off initiative but as a long-term strategic capability.

Client confidentiality and privacy remain paramount. We have taken time to ensure these are safeguarded through careful tool selection, training and quality governance. We will continue to invest and develop this programme.

AI is a major opportunity to evolve our value proposition, work more closely with clients on innovation and efficiency, and make law a more attractive career path for top talent in New Zealand.

Our Culture

We foster a culture where respect, support and wellbeing are embedded in how we work – a culture where everyone can thrive.

Progressing our Toitū goals

We have been a Toitū Net Carbon Zero certified organisation since 2022, reflecting our commitment to measuring, managing and reducing our carbon footprint. Each year, we audit and report on our greenhouse gas emissions (Scopes 1, 2, and selected Scope 3), and implement targeted strategies to reduce them.

While challenges remain, principally around travel-related emissions, we introduced a travel policy in 2024 to help manage this impact. We also purchase carbon offsets through Toitū-approved carbon-reduction schemes.

Our key initiatives include:

Travel and transport

Recognising that air travel is the primary driver of the firm's carbon emissions, we created a new travel policy in 2024 to support more sustainable practices. Under the policy, travel must be a business necessity or client requirement. Since its introduction, domestic travel has decreased by 9%. We also continue to operate our improved bike purchase scheme for our people which extends to e-bikes, new or second-hand purchases.

Energy efficiency and waste

We work with our Sustainability Committee on initiatives like recycling, compostable bins, reusable kitchenware, keep cup incentives and sustainable gifting. Energy efficiency was a key focus in our Wellington office refurbishment, which features low-carbon, carbon-neutral, low-toxicity and recyclable materials, including return-to-maker schemes to reduce landfill waste. Durability and ease of maintenance were also built into the design to support long-term sustainability.

Vero Centre achieves 4.5-star rating

The home of our Auckland office has achieved a 4.5-star NABERSNZ energy efficiency rating - an improvement from its previous 4-star rating. This upgrade reflects the success of Kiwi Property's targeted programme to reduce gas consumption and demonstrates their long-term commitment to improved energy performance.

Getting Involved

Our people are involved in a wide range of sustainability and climate initiatives, and host and participate in events and panel discussions focused on ESG topics, including sustainability, climate change and renewable energy.

Protecting the Kiwi – a national call to action

Earlier this year, some iconic Kiwi brands dropped 'Kiwi' from their logos in Call Yourself a Kiwi? - a campaign by our pro bono client Predator Free Wellington and friends, urging support for a predator-free Aotearoa by 2050. Featuring Partner Tim Clarke, the campaign used humour to spotlight the serious impact of predators, which kill 25 million native birds annually.

Conservation days

We support conservation efforts through team-building activities like tree planting, beach clean-ups and our annual bake sale for Trees That Count, funding 148 trees last year and 557 in total.

Our Litigation team volunteering on Motuihe Island, supporting the Motuihe Project's mission to restore native flora and fauna.

Women in Sustainability panel event

We hosted our first Women in Sustainability panel, led by Special Counsel Hannah Bain and partner Hannah Wilson, featuring Anne-Maree O'Connor (Guardians of New Zealand Superannuation), Miranda James (ANZ) (pictured above) and Melanie Baker-Jones (Te Whakahaere Āhuarangi). A full house joined us for kōrero on climate change, ESG and the challenges of rising global anti-ESG sentiment.

Climate Change and Business Conference

We sponsored the Climate Change and Business Conference 2025, where our Head of Climate Change, Hannah Bain, spoke on the value of climate disclosures and the impact of New Zealand's regime two years on.

ESG & climate change

2025 has been an interesting year for ESG and climate change. While geopolitical developments have turned the tide against ESG in some areas, we are proud to be working with a range of client organisations that have progressed their ESG goals in 2025, whether it be through maturing their disclosure of climate-related risks and opportunities, setting new ESG targets or investing into exciting new green projects. As a professional services firm, we recognise that one of the most important ways for us to contribute to ESG matters is to work with our clients on the projects that matter most to them and the New Zealand economy.

Michael Loan
Partner and Head of Infrastructure

“I’m thrilled to be working on exciting new projects with key players in the energy sector who are delivering for New Zealand homes and businesses.”

In 2025, we have worked with a range of clients on renewable energy projects and investment strategies which are a critical component of New Zealand’s transition to a low-emissions, climate-resilient future. With energy security also front and centre in public discourse, there has never been a more critical time for rapid investment into, and delivery of, new and reliable renewable energy sources to Aotearoa. Our recent work includes advising:

- Meridian Energy on its acquisition of a 50% shareholding in, and its associated joint venture with Nova Energy to develop, the 400 MW Te Rahui solar farm (expected to power around 100,000 homes), including equity arrangements, electricity offtake, construction asset management and related matters.
- NewPower Energy on the development of solar farms for WEL Networks near Huntly and near Cambridge, and for Papa Rererangi I Puketapu Limited at New Plymouth Airport, including in relation to land, construction, operations and maintenance, regulatory, supply and power purchase arrangements.
- Meridian Energy on its redevelopment project to repower and extend the Te Rere Hau wind farm, including advising on turbine supply and service availability arrangements. We also advised on Meridian’s 100% acquisition of NZ Windfarms via a court-approved scheme of arrangement.
- Harmony Energy on its joint venture with First Renewables for the Tauhei solar farm and the offtake and dispatch services arrangements underpinning the debt financing for that project.

Alongside our renewables work, our expert team advises clients on a wide spectrum of issues relating to the transition to a low-emissions, climate-resilient future including mandatory climate-related disclosures, greenwashing risk, the emissions trading scheme and climate-related litigation. With ESG issues being core business priorities for New Zealand businesses, their boards and investors, we help our clients gain value through their ESG strategies while addressing and mitigating risk. Our lawyers regularly advise the boards of New Zealand’s biggest companies on governance, supporting them to integrate climate and ESG risks and opportunities across their businesses. We are sought after for our knowledge of regulatory developments and legal risks, including domestic and international developments in climate change and other ESG policies.
